DWD Secretary Newson Issues Statement on Public Policy Forum Update to Workforce Development System Study in Wisconsin

MADISON – Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development (DWD) Secretary Reggie Newson issued the following statement today on the Public Policy Forum's update to its 2008 study of Wisconsin's workforce development system:

"The Public Policy Forum is a respected organization whose work plays an important role in the discussion of our state's workforce development system," Secretary Newson said. "This is one reason why we approached the organization earlier this year about updating its workforce study from 2008. The Public Policy Forum's comprehensive yet concise analysis of the varied funding sources, administering agencies and programs that comprise our state's workforce development system will serve as a valuable resource as the dialog continues over the most effective, efficient way to deliver services."
